Tickets and Passes FAQ

What's the difference between a Pass and a Ticket?

A ticket gives you access to an individual screening, event, or panel that you have purchased, while a Pass includes access to everything happening during the festival, except the Filmmaker Brunch.

Can I still attend the Festival if I'm not a Passholder?

Absolutely! You can purchase tickets to shows online or at the door, and there will also be several free screenings open to the public.

Where can I buy tickets?

Up until the morning of the showing, you can purchase tickets online. After the morning of the show online tickets are no longer available, but you can still get them at the venue of the show, or by calling our box office at (505) 349-1414.

Are there any package deals for tickets?

Of course! If you know you want to attend multiple shows, you can purchase package deals online for a discounted price. We offer packages of 6 or 8 tickets.

Can I attend any of the parties without a festival pass?

Yes. Even without a Festival Pass, you may purchase party tickets ONLINE for $25. Please note that no tickets for parties will be sold at the door.

When should I arrive for the screening?

It is recommended for Passholders to arrive up to 15 minutes before showtime to guarantee a seat. SFIFF can't guarantee seats for Passholders who don't show up at least 15 minutes before. Ticket holders should arrive 10 minutes before the screening to join the ticket holder line. Late seating is not accommodated.

What do I need to bring to the screening?

If you are a Passholder, all you need is your pass. If you bought a ticket online, you'll need to bring a physical or digital copy of your ticket.
