A group of new independent New Mexican filmmakers announces the first annual Santa Fe Independent 2009 Film Festival to feature original, cutting-edge films made with limited resources. In the tradition of SlumDance and SlamDance, which challenge established film festivals that shut out many quality independent films made by emerging filmmakers, the Santa Fe Independent 2009 Film Festival takes place on December 4th and 5th.

Santa Fe Independent 2009 Film Festival aims to give creative Artists and filmmakers from all over the world working with small budgets the opportunity to screen their innovative films for New Mexico audiences.

The Santa Fe Independent 2009 Film Festival includes New Film Premieres, a Red Carpet Press Conference, a Meet & Greet Filmmakers Party, a New Mexicans in Film Panel Discussion, New Mexico Actors Forum and Classic New Mexico Film Screenings. Independent filmmakers interested in being part of the Santa Fe Independent 2009 Film Festival can send their name, address, phone number, email address, title of film and a DVD screener of their film to – Santa Fe Independent 2009 Film Festival, P.O. Box 4009, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87502.

Call #505 795-8480 for more information. Open submissions will be accepted until November 27th. Deadline to be included in advance press is November 20, 2009.
